Project Based Learning at GPS

Project based learning involves students working together to collaboratively research a topic and present their findings. Usually there is a starting question to inspire and direct the research. PBL provides opportunities for dynamic, student directed learning about subject material. Projects can be as short as a lesson or two, or continue for several weeks, depending on the volume of research and the students' level of interest. This approach includes a presentation of learning at the end of the project to an outside, interested party.
